Navy League Announces Award of Its Highest Honor, the Meritorious Citation, to Dr. J. Phillip (Jack) London, CACI Executive Chairman and Chairman of the Board

London to Receive Award at Nov. 3 Dinner Event

ARLINGTON, Va. — The Navy League of the United States has announced that it will present Dr. J. Phillip “Jack” London, executive chairman and chairman of the board of national security corporation CACI International Inc (NYSE: CACI), with its Meritorious Citation, the highest honor the Navy League bestows upon an individual or an organization. The award is for meritorious and exemplary service to the Navy League of the United States, the U.S. Navy and the nation.

London has been a staunch supporter of the Navy League throughout his career. His long relationship with the Navy League has included ship commissioning ceremonies, numerous Navy anniversary celebrations including the War of 1812 Bicentennial, Sea-Air-Space expositions, service on Navy League national committees, and as a supporter and adviser to Navy League national presidents — the highest ranking position in the organization.

“Dr. London’s support of the Navy League of the United States is proof of his enduring commitment to the men and women of the sea services and their families,” says Alan Kaplan, national president of the Navy League of the United States. “He has been an essential source of guidance to me personally and to the organization overall and is most deserving of our highest honor.”

London served active duty in the U.S. Navy from 1959 to 1971. From 1961 to 1965 he served as a Navy carrier antisubmarine warfare helicopter pilot, positioned against the Soviet submarine nuclear missile threat. He saw duty in 1962 during the Cuban Missile Crisis. While in the Naval Reserve from 1971 to 1983, Captain London served as an aeronautical engineering duty officer and was commanding officer of the Naval Air Systems Command reserve engineering unit. He is a 1959 graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy.

A Fortune World’s Most Admired Company, CACI provides information solutions and services in support of national security missions and government transformation for intelligence, defense, and federal civilian organizations. Under his 47 years of leadership, the company has grown into a $4.5 billion corporation with more than 20,000 employees worldwide. He is author of “Character: The Ultimate Success Factor.”

London has previously received the Navy League Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz Award in 2007 and the New York City Navy League’s council’s Leadership Technology Award in 2016.

About the Navy League of the United States

The Navy League of the United States, founded in 1902 with the support of President Theodore Roosevelt, is a nonprofit civilian, educational and advocacy organization that supports America's sea services: the Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and U.S.-flag Merchant Marine. Through national and local programs, the Navy League of the United States provides a powerful voice to educate the public and Congress on the importance of our sea services to our nation's defense, well-being and economic prosperity. The Navy League provides support to our sea services personnel and their families and youth programs, such as the Naval Sea Cadet Corps, Junior ROTC and Young Marines, that expose young people to the values of our sea services.
